Heaven Rejoices Over a Prodigal Son's Return

In a remote El Salvador village where gang violence runs rampant, a CL team recently held an outreach. A local gang leader named Alejandro* appeared to be casing the clinic. But to everyone's surprise, Alejandro soon asked to speak with Nathan, one of the clinic's counselors.

As they spoke, Alejandro confessed he had been saved and called into ministry as a child, but had since turned away. He simply could not believe, after the terrible things he had done, that God could still use him. As Nathan shared the Father's unchanging love, Alejandro not only recommitted his heart to Him, but also responded once again to his call to ministry.

"... Alejandro confessed he had been saved and called into ministry as a child, but had since turned away."

We know heaven rejoices over every prodigal coming home; and we celebrate Alejandro's return with them!
